

Almac Cars, Nicolaus Street; custom-made MG look-alike, built by Alec McDonald.

Caption: Driving a car like this attracts a lot of attention so that's why owner Mike Taylor always goes to the same petrol station.

"Otherwise it takes me half an hour to fill up because everybody wants to know everything about it," he says. An MG enthusiast, Mr Taylor has owned two MGs in his time.

"The beauty of this car is that it has the beautiful traditional shape of an MG with all the modern components and reliability," he says.

The custom-made car was totally hand built by Alec McDonald of Almac Cars in Nicolaus Street, Upper Hutt. Most of the componentry is either sourced or manufactured in Upper Hutt, says Mr Taylor who is the manager of the Upper Hutt branch of the ANZ Bank.

Printed in colour in the 'Leader' on November 5, 1991. Date Taken October/November 1991